

GOVERNOR'S CHALLENGE

in Economics and Personal Finance

2018

- Get students fired up about economics and personal finance
- Motivate them to learn and excel
- Encourage healthy competition and school pride

The Governor's Challenge is an online and live competition open to teams of Virginia high school students. There is no charge to compete.

Participating schools can enter teams in three divisions:

- Personal Finance
students in a course that includes some personal finance content
- Economics – David Ricardo Division
students in a one-semester general economics course or a course that includes some economics-related content
- Economics – Adam Smith Division
students in an IB, AP, honors, college-level, or two-semester economics course

Important Dates

Online Challenge: March 1-16 for Personal Finance
March 1-23 for Economics Divisions

Students compete within their state region by taking a 30-question online exam at their school. Division teams (four students) earning the highest combined score in their region will receive an award and the option to advance to the live competition.

Live Challenge: April 20, 2018

Twelve teams from each division, including all regional winners, will be invited to compete in Richmond.

Registration begins: January 1, 2018

Teachers register their students. Students may participate in up to two divisions.
